History

A conversation during a taxi ride in 1996 was the start of the long-lasting relationship between Trillion Trees Australia and Bowra & O'Dea Funeral Directors.

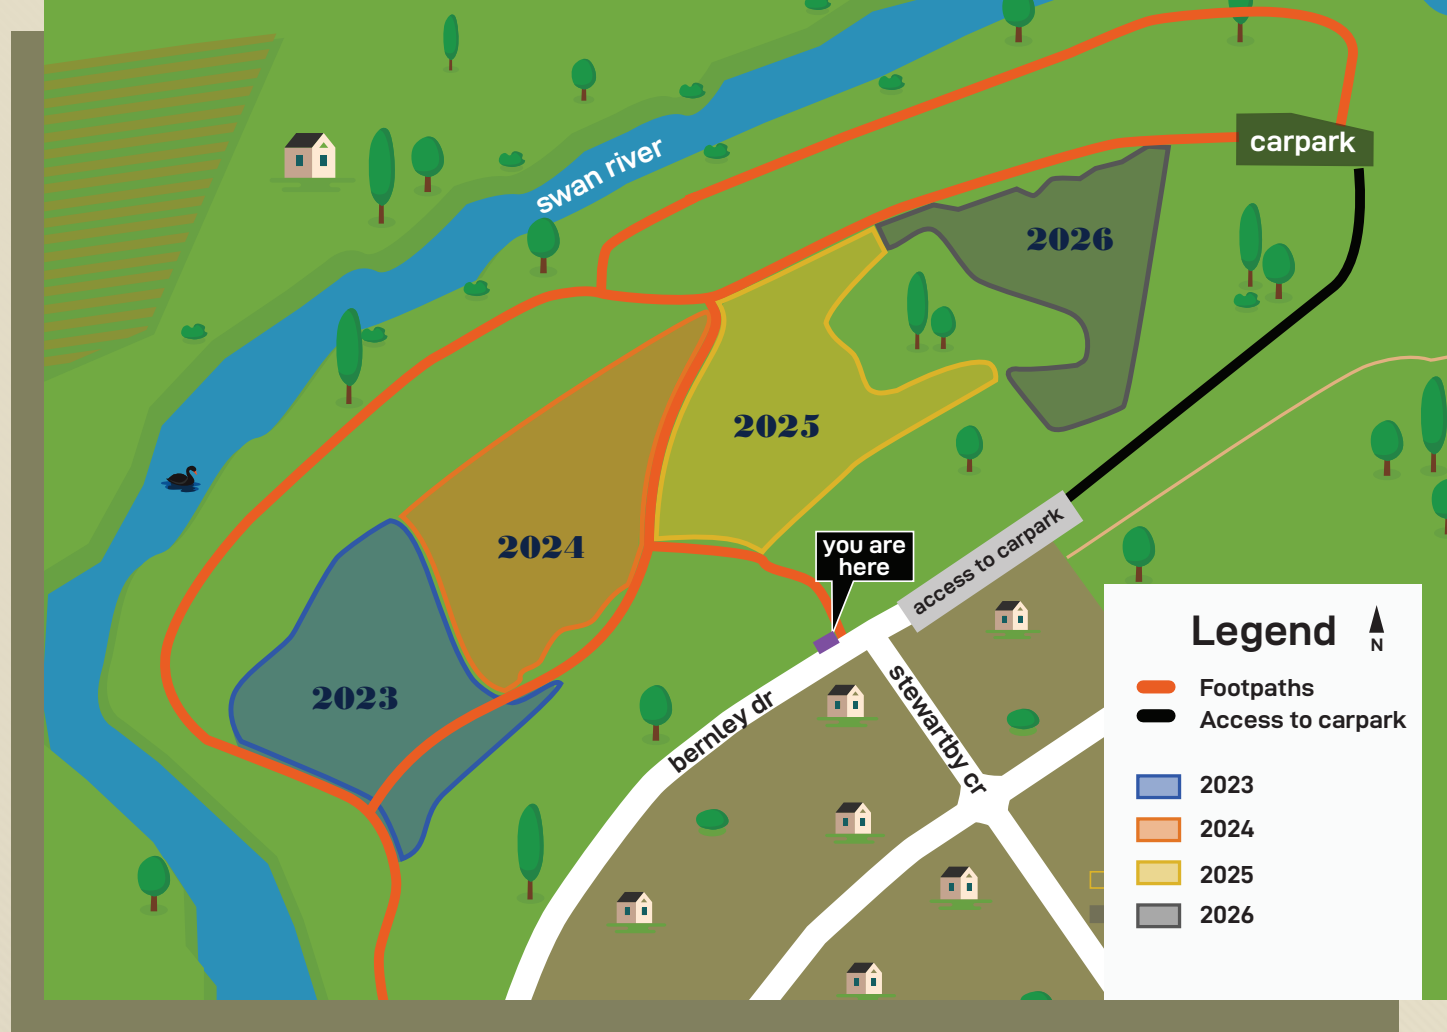

Tim Lawrence, the taxi driver, and his passenger Joe O'Dea Jnr of Bowra & O'Dea, both passionate about the environment, discussed a vision to create a restful place for families to visit and remember their loved one surrounded by a forest. The planting of a tree would be both a living legacy and a contribution to restoration of the natural environment.

Since that conversation over 27 years ago, Trillion Trees Australia together with Bowra & O'Dea has planted thousands of native trees across Western Australia, creating Forests of Remembrance and providing vital restoration of degraded land.

Viveash Memorial Grove

The Reg Bond Riparian Woodland Restoration Project (Viveash Memorial Grove) is proudly sponsored by Bowra & O'Dea in collaboration with Trillion Trees and the City of Swan.

Planting began at Reg Bond Reserve in Viveash in 2021 and the ongoing ecological restoration work is protecting and revitalising this important riparian floodplain environment for future generations. Each year up to 5,000 native trees and understory are planted at the project site, with restoration expected to continue until 2025.

Trillion Trees Australia

Trillion Trees Australia is a not-for-profit ecological restoration organisation overseeing the Viveash Memorial Grove project. This includes site preparation, planting trees, understory, and ongoing maintenance during the restoration project. Restoration projects combat salinity and soil erosion, improve biodiversity, and provide habitat for thousands of native species.

Bowra & O'Dea

Bowra & O'Dea is proud to contribute to the Viveash Memorial Grove by providing a living tribute to a loved-one and a place of contemplation. The memorial grove reflects the natural environment of the native surrounding bushland. To dedicate a tree to a loved one families can purchase and place a Bowra & O'Dea memorial plaque. For all enquiries please contact Bowra & O'Dea.
